AREA MARKETING PROGRAM
OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
OFF TO FLYING START

Twenty-five Bethel area businesses have already made cooperating commitments towards the 1983 Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce's vacation promotion program according to chamber executive director, Donald Bennett. These commitments come from business owners located in Bethel, Newry, West Bethel, Bryant Pond and Shelburne, N. H.

Because of the commitments received during the last week, a full page advertisement about the Bethel area has been completed for publication in the March issue of Down East magazine and 12 pages of advertising commitments have also been received for the association's proposed new booklet about the Bethel area.

A second feature of this year's program, according to Bennett, is that there has been a significant increase in interest in the Bethel area.

Board members, on the average, attend one meeting per week, most always in the evening, and almost always involving some preparation work.

In addition to attending Board meetings on alternate weeks, directors serve on at least two standing sub-committees, which meet on separate weeknights.

The work load facing a new Board member is incredible. The new Director is faced with policy manuals, faculty and student handbooks, negotiated contracts, school law books, curriculum guides, and notebooks full of agendas, minutes, and memorandums. The new Board member must become familiar with these volumes of information, and become familiar with 16 fellow Board members and nearly 150 employees of the school district.

The new Board member must become familiar with these policies, procedures, and personalities so that they can make decisions.

While many decisions are relatively clear cut, some decisions are difficult. Some of the toughest decisions have been outlined in this column, and most of them deal with stretching scarce resources as far as humanly possible.

Directors are also faced with tough decisions on personnel issues, collective bargaining issues, and policy issues.

Because Board members must make tough decisions, their verdicts are not always well received by the public. As money becomes more scarce, every decision becomes increasingly difficult, and Board members find their efforts increasingly unappreciated.

The hours of meetings, hard work, tough decisions, and little thanks, fortunately attract dedicated, civic-minded individuals. At town meetings and elections in the weeks ahead, I hope that voters and prospective Board members have an appreciation for the work of the S.A.D. 44 Board of Directors.

For the past 17 years, Mr. Brown has served our community in elective offices: Board of Selectmen from 1966 to 1970; and, except for an 18 month respite, S.A.D. 44 Board of Directors from March 1970 to the effective date of his resignation. His distinguished service has been highlighted with professionalism and keen integrity. Mr. Brown's term was due to expire in 1984. DIGGING OUT — Bethel Water

District personnel got a work out with their shovels this week following a week end storm which left a foot or more of snow on the Bethel area. Donald Katalin, Water District Superintendent, left, and

Scott Gilbert are shown Monday afternoon clearing the last of 48 public hydrants which the District must keep accessible. This is the first time this winter season that hydrant snow removal has been necessary.

From the Bethel Town Office

The Board of Selectmen at their meeting Monday evening, Jan. 17, accepted with deep regret the resignation of John Brown from the Maine School Administrative District 44 Board of Directors. His resignation will become effective at the March 21 annual elections to permit voters of Bethel to elect a member for the remaining year of the term.

BETHEL AVIATORS GROUP MEETS WITH 14 PRESENT

A meeting of the Bethel Aviators Group was held on Jan. 13 with 14 interested citizens, including three members of the Airport Advisory Committee and the previous Fixed Base Operator from the Oxford County Regional Airport.

Several interesting questions were raised about some of the figures in the Bethel Airport Master Plan done by Hunter and Ballou. Members of the group were appointed to discuss these questions with the appropriate Federal Aviation Administration officials and Oxford County Commissioners and explain their findings at the next meeting.

Broader use of the proposed airport facilities was also discussed. The people attending from the Oxford Area mentioned that the School District had successfully included aeronautical related courses in its curriculum. One of the attendants at the meeting is a senior at Telstar who is presently taking flight instruction, indicating an interest in our own schools. This was also evidenced by the enthusiastic interest of Gould and Telstar students during the sail plane and glider week ends this past summer and fall.

The next scheduled meeting will be early in February and will be announced in the Citizen.

WINTER CARNIVAL EVENTS SOLICITED

The Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce will again coordinate the scheduling of activities during the Feb. 10 to 27 winter vacation period to publicize them as Bethel's winter carnival program. Individual clubs, businesses and recreation boards are asked to report their plans to the chamber of commerce by calling 824-3322 after 5 p. m. Although there is no strict deadline, receipt of any planned events by Feb. 1 would be appreciated so that a news release can be prepared and distributed.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

MET JAN. 12 AT

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Bethel Senior Citizens met on Wednesday, Jan. 12 at the West Parish Congregational Church for their regular monthly meeting with 71 members and guests present. Maude Danforth had charge of the registration book.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Muriel Faudi. A special welcome was extended to Bessie Newcomb and Lindley Wieden. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Brendon Bass.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Flora Haines reported that 43 Christmas baskets were delivered last month and nine-get-well cards had been sent. She expressed her thanks to those who had helped her during the years she has served as the Sunshine Chairman.

Several thank-you notes were read and the President expressed her gratitude for the Christmas gift she had received.

Ernest Perkins, who recently received the Good Citizen Award, which is presented by the Rotary Club each year, was given special recognition.

The slate of officers which was presented by the nominating committee for 1983 was elected as follows: President, Muriel Faudi; Vice President, Harold Powell; Secretary, Edna York; Treasurer, Sarah Stevens; Program chairman, Irene Pike; Sunshine chairman, Agnes Haines and Peggy Coolidge; Fund Raising program, Maude Danforth.

Hoppe Lane spoke briefly on the forthcoming trip "In and About Boston" which will take place on June 6, 7, and 8. Anyone interested should make an early reservation.

Carolyn Brooks announced that a Special Olympics for Handicapped Children was to be held at Telstar Regional High School on Jan. 18 under the direction of the American Legion Auxiliary and the rotary Club. She hoped as many as possible would plan to attend this event in order to give these children the attention and encouragement they deserve. If there is no snow, the Olympics were to be postponed until some time in February.

The President stressed the need for money-making projects if the group is to take any trips this year.

Maude Danforth distributed little cloth bags to those present in which each one is to place money corresponding to their age. They are to be returned at the March meeting.

Those observing their contributions this month were: Peggy Coolidge, Chloe Cummings, Muriel Faudi, Dorothy Horne, and Stella Howe. The birthday cake was furnished by Sylvia Conroy, Elsie Davis, Celia Gorman, Maude Hunt, Myrtle Lapham, Elizabeth Lord, Sylvia Luxton, Irene Pike, and Jane Van. It was made by Leona Flint.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 14 in McKee's Restaurant.

At that time each member is asked to bring two unsigned val-uetines: one to go to the patients at Ledgeview Memorial Home and the other to Andrews Nursing Home. Dorothy Onofrio and Julia Brown will be in charge of this program. Rev. Bass offered the grace after which a delicious ham dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

Following the dinner the group was delightedly entertained by the magical prowess of Mansfield Packard, who held the interest of everyone present with his "sleight of hand" and "quicker than the eye" tricks as well as his amusing technique. The thanks of the group go to this talented man for a very pleasant performance.

Looking Ahead: On March 9 the Bethel Senior Citizens will meet at the Congregational Church. The meal will be catered by the Shop and Save Service.

Sent in by Viva Whitman: Did you ever watch Gray Sparrows to see how intelligent and crafty they can be! Russell and I have enjoyed watching a pair of them here this past week. He has tried to outsmart them, but they keep finding a way past his barriers to the bird feeders. He hopes he has them fooled but time will tell. He has sure used a lot of metal trying to outsmart them.

Outside the front door is a portico to help shelter the door. Hanging up under this, we have a bird feeder for the Chick-a-dees. This particular one has a top that lifts off to put the seed in and then there are holes on the sides, with perches beside them so the birds can sit there to reach in and get the sunflower seeds, which they like so well. Russell also has made a small square hanger, with a wire up from the center to hold doughnuts for the birds. Between these two feeders hangs a fairly large round thermometer that is metal, all but a piece of narrow board down the back that holds it in place. Down further on the side of the house there was an old bird feeder nailed to the side of the house, just below where the two by four is nailed to hold the portico up. The squirrels found they could get onto the old feeder, then up onto the two by four and climb up where they could reach across and lift the cover off the bird feeder and by extending their bodies down into the feeder, reach the sunflower seeds. Russell put up metal on the two by four, also other pieces of it so he didn't think the squirrels could get up there. They found they had trouble getting to the first feeder but they found they could still get to the doughnuts, so before he got through, Russell had put an old piece of funnel around the post that supported the portico and stood back to watch. The squirrels would get onto the old feeder on the side of the house, jump onto the top of the funnel and shimmy across to the thermometer and with one hind foot hanging to the board on the back and the other clinging to the

The rains of earlier this week changed the face of our pond. At times it came down like rods. It poured down gutters, rushed down slopes, turning paths into brooks and washed loose soil to brown other beautiful scenes into their soft, porous under surfaces.

On the upper side one sees what looks like growth rings but its age can't be told by counting rings, as on trees. While this fungus is living out its life cycle it gradually decomposes the tree on which it is living. I looked at them then moved on.

Sanborn River set itself free, pushing the ice down stream. Then it was floated above the pond covering lodges in various sized cakes where it has stayed to marr the smooth transparent sheet.

But between that time and Saturday I have taken several hikes on wood trails. Walking in the woods were ready, waiting the zebra, and silence had settled over it waiting for whirling eddies to noiselessly transform it everywhere.

I have found many nests including that of the robins which I knew must be near the lawn. It was in the apple tree where I had looked many times. But seeing the orioles' nest surprised me most. I had watched the Mrs. take my string and fly away with it and both ate my oranges but I never found their home until now. It wasn't hidden but I guess I looked too high.

The blue jay called its challenge to the frozen world. All the way home I was silent, busy with my own speculations. Sunday morning and all the world about is white.

Life will now be lived differently. The tension has gone. Stability has come to our valley and to our life as well.

Now, too, I'm noticing several kinds of fungi growing on trees of different species. They resemble various things, horseshoe hoofs, mushrooms, and shelves. The shelf-like ones are the artists' fungi. I found two large ones on the same tree, clean, thick and buffy white. But if it is scratched it turns brown. My artistic sister-in-law has etched landscapes and

The monthly meeting was postponed until Sunday, Jan. 23, because of the snow storm. There will be a board of directors meeting one hour before the regular meeting at 7 o'clock.

Many B.E.A.R.S. will be renewing their state license on Feb. 9, by taking both the written and practical exams. If you are one of these remember this date. The time will be published later.

Twelve Boy Scouts were at the Bus Garage last Wednesday night to learn mouth to mouth resuscitation. They were very quick to learn and interested. It seems so good to see these young folks take such an interest.

The B.E.A.R.S. have purchased three portable radios which will be arriving soon. These will be used for first responding. This will give the service better coverage, as those at the scene first can contact the ambulance with vital information, helping them to serve the community better. The radios were purchased with money received by the B.E.A.R.S. from many of the recent memorial donations.

Safety Tip of the Week

SENATOR COHEN
From Washington

Sometimes, with the best of intentions, Congress passes laws that turn out to have unanticipated consequences once they are implemented. An example is a provision of a 1980 law requiring the Social Security Administration to review periodically the eligibility of individuals receiving disability benefits. This law was prompted by a General Accounting Office study which revealed that some individuals who were no longer disabled were continuing to collect benefits.

Making sure that only those who are entitled to disability benefits receive them is obviously good management. Unless we eliminate from the program people who no longer need our assistance, we limit our ability to provide for those who do. Unfortunately, the implementation of the law created chaos and inflicted pain that Congress neither envisioned nor desired when it enacted what was intended to be a sound management tool.

My Maine offices soon began hearing from severely disabled people who had their benefits discontinued as a result of the new reviews. A number of these individuals clearly were unable to resume work and desperately needed disability benefits. Since one of my most important responsibilities is to oversee the implementation of federal laws, I decided to hold oversight hearings on the Social Security disability investigations.

The hearings revealed that the problems experienced by disabled workers in Maine were prevalent throughout the country and were caused by substantial weaknesses in the review process. I discovered that benefits were being terminated in nearly 45% of the cases reviewed—far above the predicted ineligibility rate. Yet, 23 of the individuals who appealed their termination decisions were being reinstated to the program after a hearing before an administrative law judge. A disturbing pattern emerged of misinformation, incomplete medical examinations, no personal contact, inadequately documented reviews, conflicting standards and erroneous decisions.

The system was so overloaded and the appeals process so clogged that claimants were without benefits for many months—or even a year or longer—while waiting for a hearing. One of my constituents was without benefits for 20 months before she was reinstated. During that time, she lost both her house and her car because she had no income. Another Maine resident was without his disability checks for 16 months because of a computer mistake and the appeals backlog. Lacking income and too proud to accept welfare, this de-

CUB SCOUT PACK #566 NEWS

The Pack Committee is having a fund raiser and will award a comforter/quilt made and donated by Shirley Bates. This is to raise money to send the Cubs to Camp Bomazeen this summer. This quilt is on display at the Casco Bank. It is hoped you can help with a donation. Donations will be accepted by any Cub Scout, Leader, or at the Bank. The Pack started Saturday morning basketball practices at Telstar on Jan. 8 and had a very good turnout. Sunday, Jan. 9, they went to Mollyockett Motel for a swim in the pool. Several Cubs passed swimming badge requirements. The Pinewood Derby will be run on Jan. 25, at the Gould Academy Girls Gym. Any one is invited to watch.

Fortunately, President Reagan last week signed legislation I authored to provide a short-term solution to the problems faced by those severely disabled people whose benefits are terminated and then reinstated.

The most important provision of the new law permits individuals who appeal their termination decisions to have their benefits continued until an administrative law judge reviews the case. By continuing benefits pending appeal, this legislation eliminates the needless financial burden now imposed on disabled people who are mistakenly removed from the program, despite being unable to resume work. Currently claimants who successfully appeal termination decisions receive back benefits, but only after months of disruption and delay. My legislation prevents the interruption of benefits to which these individuals are entitled.

Disability benefits are not welfare. A worker earns this insurance through the Social Security taxes that are deducted from his paycheck, and he must have worked a minimum amount of time in order to qualify. In addition, he must be so disabled that he not only cannot perform the job that he has been doing but also cannot do any substantial work, considering his age, education and work experience.

Surely, when we are dealing with the most disabled workers in our society, we should ensure that the government does not add another burden to the ones they already must bear. This year I will be working on comprehensive reforms to make the disability review process more efficient and fairer to disabled workers.

My experience with the disability issue has confirmed my belief about the necessity of vigorous congressional oversight. Congress has an obligation to ensure that the laws it passes actually work as intended.

ISHAM PARTICIPATES IN WORLD OUTLOOK PROGRAM OF BELOIT COLLEGE

Mathew Isham of Bethel recently participated in the World Outlook Program, one of the overseas seminars Beloit College, Beloit, Wis., sponsors around the world.

For over 20 years Beloit's World Outlook Program has offered seminars in all six continents. The college's distinguished reputation for international studies rests largely on the program, which was established in an effort to provide Beloit students the opportunity to develop greater international understanding.

The 1982 fall program was directed by Alfred Ordman, professor of history at Beloit, and was based in Tel Aviv, Israel. Students took courses at Tel Aviv University in a variety of academic fields while living in student housing provided by the university.

MAINE GOP CHAIRMAN IS SPEAKER AT COUNTY REPUBLICAN MEETING

Loyall Sewall, new chairman of Maine GOP was the speaker at the Oxford County Republican monthly meeting.

Sewall spoke about plans for revitalization of local and county organization. "Groundwork needs to be laid for the 1984 elections," he said. Complete mailing lists need working on immediately. State surveys now being completed by all towns will give valuable information and statistics to the state committee. Sewall complimented Oxford County for being number one in the State Finance Drive. Sewall stated he would be visiting all county committees.

Rep. Armstrong, Wilton and Rep. Sue Bell, South Paris, answered questions on Tax Indexing.

The county committee voted to donate $300 to former Congressman David Emery to help defray outstanding campaign expenses. $200 was voted to be given to John Morton and Chris Shorey, Key Club members who will be attending Convention II in Washington in February.

State Committee Don Buzzell of Fryeburg asked committee members to complete survey forms and return to him as soon as possible.

Co-chairman of the Lincoln Day Dinner, Henry Jackson, announced the dinner will be held Feb. 19 at the Bethel Inn. Sen. William Cohen will be guest speaker.

Norman K. Ferguson reported the county treasury was in good standing and that all election expenses and commitments were paid.

To the Editor:

It is with deep regret to write that I will not be running for a second term as Selectman Assessor for the Town of Bethel. A change in employment will not allow me to give the necessary time and effort for the Selectman/Assessor position.

The past three years have been memorable. Years full of challenge, hard work, and enjoyment. And I feel honored to have been a part of Bethel's town affairs and represent the public.

Thanks to the Board for their support. It was a pleasure being with a truly hard working and dedicated Board, past and present members. And thanks also to the citizens of Bethel for their support and involvement. Best of luck to the Board and citizens.

Sincerely,
Peter Weeks

been an honor and a privilege to serve in elective positions for the town of Bethel: Board of Selectmen, March 1969 to Oct. 7, 1970; and for the following periods on the S.A.D. 44 Board — March 1970 to March 1976, April 1977 to March 1981, and from October 1981 to March 21, 1983.

I found my tenure on the Board to be an enjoyable experience and educational to the extent that there are no panaceas to any problems that there might be in the educational system. No "Messiah" is going to arrive to magically provide solutions, no instituting of "state of the art" technological devices will replace the humanness of people working with people. In any activity that deals primarily with people, sophisticated hardware may be an assistance, but only that. Any progress will be realized through the personalities, coupled with the abilities, of those involved.

I feel a deep appreciation of the efforts of fellow Board members, five Superintendents of Schools, and certified and classified staff members, during my years as a S.A.D. 44 Director.

During the past 17 years it has been an honor to be a part of the Bethel voters for their support: over the years, and to the Bethel Board of Selectmen who twice appointed me to serve interim terms on the S.A.D. 44 Board.

My heartfelt thanks go to the Bethel voters for their support: over the years, and to the Bethel Board of Selectmen who twice appointed me to serve interim terms on the S.A.D. 44 Board.

Sincerely yours,

John K. Brown

Northwest Bethel —

Clarice Gibson, Corres.

Called up several people and didn't get any news. Guess the stormy week end. Most people stayed home. It started snowing the middle of the afternoon Saturday and continued until Sunday evening.

Monday I left as soon as the men did to meet my sister, Iva Holden in Norway. She goes down every Monday and last week I got a call that a piece of equipment I had taken in July or August was finally fixed. On the way back we stopped in to Rustield Village to see "Sue" and Violet Doughty who had just moved there from East Stowham.

Jim MacDougall took his sister Lea MacDougall, back to her studies at U.M.O. Jan. 11. That was the day we had so much rain but was told they got up without any trouble.

Wednesday we had beautiful weather and Thursday and Friday weren't bad either. If the storm Tuesday had been snow and then the one over the week end we would still be shoveling.

No Longer

As quick as a prayer can bring him.

He answers my call for aid,

And doors that were locked swing open.

And I am no longer afraid,

No evil has power to touch me,

As long as I am His own

And placing my feet in His footprints.

I find I'm no longer alone.

He shows me the wisdom of patience,

Consoles when the going is rough,

And pleasures that used to entice me,

Are strangely no longer enough.

With Him I find a completeness,

Fulfilling my dearest hope,

He lends me His shoulder to lean on.

When I can no longer cope.

The Joy that surrounds His presence

Enriches me greater than gold,

His gentle hands lift the burden,

That I can no longer hold

He dresses the wounds of my spirit,

Inflicted at such a cost,

He reaches for me through the darkness,

And I am no longer lost.

For I am the captive He ransomed,

The reason for which He came,

And touched by His infinite mercy,

My heart is no longer the same.

Born without any possessions

What care I when these be gone,

For I belong to the Master,

And I am no longer my own!

—Grace E. Easky.

UMO PROFESSOR TO LEAD
SOUTH PARIS WORKSHOP
ON BURNING WOOD

A workshop of interest to many area residents, sponsored by SWOAM (Small Woodland Owners Association of Maine) and the Oxford County Extension Office will be held Thursday, Jan. 27, in South Paris. Meeting place is the Oxford Hills High School and the time is 7 p.m. The subject of the meeting will be "The Future of Wood Burning" or "Phase II of Burning Wood as a Fuel". It will be under the leadership of Professor Norman Smith, University of Maine, Orono. Dr. Smith is the head of the Agricultural Engineering Department at the University.

Thus far, seven seniors have received acceptance news. Just this past week, Dennis Bodemer received notification of acceptance in the University of Southern Maine's Accounting program. We were also pleased to learn that Stephanie Merrill and Cheryl Stowell had been granted admission to Hesser College's Computer Science program in Manchester, N.H. Also receiving acceptance this week was Miss Sandra Cox to Mansfield Beauty Academy, Lewiston.

For several years, Professor Smith, and several associates at the University, have been working on a system to burn woodchips. Their goal was to find a more automated way to feed a locally produced fuel to the firebox of a stove or furnace. We had all become spoiled with the ease of firing with oil or gas, which requires only the adjusting of the thermostat in our comfortable living quarters and the calling of the oil man, which can even be automatically programmed. The escalating cost of oil and gas, and the possibility of another oil embargo caused many to have second thoughts—to look for an alternative, or perhaps even a replacement, source of energy for heating our homes and/or domestic hot water. For us in Maine wood was a natural place to look and a majority of Maine homes now burn wood in some capacity.

At the State University, Prof. Richard Hill and Prof. Smith, among others, anticipated what each of us who burn wood in any volume soon found out. Feeding stick wood to the fire piece by piece soon gets monotonous and if you add the work of providing the firewood as most small woodlot owners do, whether all the way from the tree, or some part of the process, quickly loses its glamour. Prof. Hill developed the "stick wood" furnace which very efficiently burns round wood end at extremely hot temperatures and the unit has much success in the marketplace. However, the furnace, or boiler if you have no water heat, requires a new installation and is relatively expensive. Prof. Smith took the other route and worked with his associates on a chip burner which can be retrofitted to existing units.

Three subjects will be covered

As of Jan. 18, Stanley Howe has taken out nomination papers for the position of School Director for three years and George Hayes for the position of Selectman. At this writing, no papers have been taken out for Assessor.

The remainder of the Jan. 17 Board meeting was spent working on the 1983 budget. The Board anticipates completing budget preparation work at the Jan 24 meeting, after a public hearing to give citizens an opportunity to suggest possible uses of General Federal Revenue Sharing Funds. Using these inputs, Selectmen could determine from citizens how the money should be used and, in turn, the Selectmen must consider these suggestions in making their recommendations to the Budget Committee and Town Meeting.

MOOSE APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE

Permit applications are now available for Maine's 1983 moose hunting season, according to the Fish and Wildlife Dept.

Anyone wanting a chance to be among the 900 Maine residents and 100 non-residents hunting moose in northern Maine this September must apply for the permit drawing on a form provided by the department.

Maine residents may obtain application forms from agents who sell resident hunting and fishing licenses. Non-residents may request their forms by sending a self-addressed return envelope to the Augusta office of the Fish and Wildlife Dept.

Application instructions and details of the 1983 moose season accompany the forms.

The deadline for applying is April 1. Permit recipients will be selected at a public drawing in May.

Possession of a hunting license is not required to apply for the permit drawing.

WINTER'S WORST BLOWS YET TO COME

The hardest blows of winter could come within the next few weeks, causing problems for the motorist whose vehicle is not fully prepared for winter's severest tests.

"Traffic tie-ups, stalled cars, abandoned vehicles and accidents are common sights during stormy weather and are primarily the result of inadequate vehicle care and faulty judgement in driving," said Col. Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Motorists are advised to check now on whether vehicles will be able to "take it" when heavy snowfalls and sleet storms lead to poor driving.

Batteries going "dead" and lights failing to work when needed should be corrected, said Col. Weeks, and defrosters unable to clear windshields adequately should be repaired.

In addition, ignition, radiator, fan belts, spark plugs and other engine parts can be checked to determine whether they are working properly. Snow tires are advisable and reinforced tire chains are a must for severest conditions.

"Motorists should not drive during severe winter storms; however, those who must travel should reduce speed drastically, put on chains for needed traction, make sure gas tank is full and operate with extraordinary care," said the state police chief.

SMALL CHILDREN'S SAFETY CONCERN STATE POLICE

The Maine State Police are concerned about motorists who allow small children in their laps while they drive.

"A small child in a motorist's lap hinders the operation of a vehicle in emergency or quick stop maneuver, and more importantly, during a sudden stop the child may get crushed between the driver and the steering wheel," said Col. Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Because the forces generated by sudden stops are tremendous, Col. Weeks said, motorists also should not allow small children to stand on either the front or back seats but have their children sitting for safety reasons while their vehicle is moving.

MAINE HUNTER EDUCATION PROGRAM WINS AWARD

Maine's Hunter Education Program has received an Award of Merit from the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies.

MS. ANGEVINE APPOINTED RURAL ROUTE CARRIER AT BRYANT POND

Bonnie Louise Angevine of Bethel has been appointed a full-time mail carrier for the rural route previously held by Harris Hathaway of Bryant Pond. She is the first female to hold this position in the history of the Bryant Pond Post Office.

A substitute rural carrier since April 1981, Ms. Angevine was welcomed as a full-time employee postmaster of Bryant Pond. The route covers 63 miles and 230 patrons, in the following locations: Route 232, Rumford Corner, Milton Plantation, Gore Road, Bird Hill, Twitchell Pond, Rowe Hill, Old County Road, and Howe Hill Road.

Her biggest challenge is driving the back roads, she says. She drives a 4-wheel-drive vehicle which she says is necessary for the terrain she travels.

Ms. Angevine is the mother of three sons, Scot, 17, Brent, 13, and Dean, 10. She has recently purchased a home in the Mayville section of Bethel.

Before assuming her present position with the Bryant Pond Post Office, she had been employed by Dr. John Mason, at the Bethel IGA, at the Bethel Inn, and by Captain Carl Sehn.

She is the co-ordinator of the C.A.D.E.T. drug and alcohol awareness team along with Suzanne Taylor. In her free time she enjoys dancing.

MISS JAROS ON DEAN'S LIST AT NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

Mary Anne Jaros, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaros of Andover, has been named to the Dean's List with honors at Northeastern University, Boston, Mass.

She is enrolled in the Criminal Justice Program. Mary Anne has also been recently appointed to the Northern Criminal Justice Advisory Council. Mary Anne is a 1982 graduate of Telstar Regional High School.

SNOWSHOES DONATED TO WARDEN SERVICE

Citing the valuable work on behalf of Maine wildlife performed by game wardens, a Norridgewock snowshoe manufacturer has donated eight pairs of handmade snowshoes to the Maine Warden Service.

Because the forces generated by sudden stops are tremendous, Col. Weeks said, motorists also should not allow small children to stand on either the front or back seats but have their children sitting for safety reasons while their vehicle is moving.

J. RICHARD LEVESQUE

said "Maine game wardens play an important role in the continuing existence of our wildlife resources," and he hopes the snowshoes will be helpful to the wardens—particularly in such winter activities as preventing dogs from chasing and killing deer.

The snowshoes were presented to Commissioner Glenn H. Manuel, who accepted them on behalf of the Warden Service.

The snowshoes presented comprised seven pairs of modified bear paw model, and one pair of the traditional Maine style snowshoe. They are handmade by Lessesque using selected native white ash for the frames, and the filling is woven from a durable neoprene material.

The snowshoes have a retail value of $54 a pair, deer season and a total of 25 for the year—the majority of a minor nature.

Manuel attributed much of the success to volunteer hunter safety instructors who have trained over 60,000 Maine hunters.
